Developed by a diverse group of lawyers from across the country, our software and apps help manage your life and work. We pride ourselves on listening to our customer's needs and working with them to create the best solutions for their law practice. Guests In this segment on The Independents, David Edwards and Paul Kane look at an article from Slate about a new law in Kansas that requires children to be vaccinated against certain diseases before they can attend public school. Edwards and Kane note that the law has attracted a lot of attention and support, but also many criticisms. They explain why the law is unconstitutional and ill-advised and they look at what it will mean for those who want to avoid being vaccinated. Rationale and design of the epidemiologic study of the determinants of caregiving by dementia patients in Alzheimer's disease. Dementia is a leading cause of disability and dependence, and the incidence and prevalence of dementia is projected to double by 2050 in the United States. Caregiving for dementia patients is a critical problem, and poor caregiving may affect health outcomes, patient's mood, and patient's functional status. Therefore, it is important to examine caregiving experiences for dementia patients. This article discusses the rationale and design of a study to determine the determinants of caregiving for dementia patients in the early stages of dementia and associated clinical outcomes. They would not say how many people were injured or killed in the fire, but said it was contained. "It started about 6:15 a.m. about a half-mile south of Soda Lake Way and 37th, and it moved very quickly," a police spokesman said. The call came in as a fire-related call from a woman and her daughter, who were stranded in a vehicle, but that was quickly confirmed to be false. At least five people are still being treated at the hospital, said Col. Tom Cross, fire department public information officer. The fire was out by 9:45 a.m., he said. One of the injured people was being flown to the hospital. Cross said he was not sure what happened to the other four. He said a number of other agencies are helping with the incident. - type: replace path: /spec.containers[?(@.name=="nginx")].image value: kubernetes/nginx:1.16.1 - type: replace
